

Redeem Savings Stamps for discounts... just by subscribing to The Nutshell

How do I save? Subscribe to The Nutshell. After subscribing, stop by the store to pick up your Savings Stamps Card or Slip. The card/slip will feature specific time periods when specific discounts can be claimed. For fun, we are referring to each discount as a “Savings Stamp.” You’ll “redeem” the Savings Stamp by presenting the card at the time of purchase.

How many times can I save each month? The Savings Stamps program may differ by week or month... details will be printed on the card/slip. If you don’t redeem a specific Savings Stamp when it is valid, you’ll just miss the discount for that specific time period.

What if I forget to redeem my stamp during that stamp’s active period? Savings Stamps will not be retroactively marked (nor can they be redeemed in advance). This is just how the program works.

Why keep up with the Savings Stamp Card? We issue only one card per subscriber.

Why can’t you just handle this in your system? Well, it is very expensive to purchase the software function necessary to do that. And, honestly, we hope this concrete reminder in your wallet will keep us on your mind. And hopefully, it’s a fun way to save money.

How does this work with the Frequent Shopper Card? The Savings Stamps benefits – limited to active subscribers to the newsletter – are MUCH better than the Frequent Shopper Card benefits. (It’s a concession for letting us speak directly to you via email.) Therefore, you’ll use either the Savings Stamp or the Frequent Shopper card. That said, if you have a completed Frequent Shopper Card, you may use that discount on an item that is not discounted by the Savings Stamp.

What if I lose my Savings Stamps Slip? We cannot replace the cards. You may use a Frequent Shopper Card until the next card/slip is issued, be it monthly, quarterly, etc.
